FREE 10-MINUTE EXERCISE

Under Your Skin

For the one person, or moment, you can't stop replaying. Name it, get specific, and take your first clear look at it. About 10 minutes.

INSIDE

1. Name it
2. Get specific
3. Score it
4. A first glimpse of the other side
5. Reflect, and your next step

> "The size of a reaction shows you what you can't yet see."

Before you start

Most of what holds capable people back isn't a lack of skill. It's one thing: the boss, client, partner or coworker whose words you replay at 2 a.m., a voice of doubt, or a memory that keeps pulling them off their game. This exercise helps you name it, get specific, and take a first look at it from a new angle.

TIME
About 10 minutes

WHERE
Somewhere quiet, uninterrupted

HOW
A pen and your first honest answer

1 Name it

What's pulling you off your game right now? Choose the one that carries the most weight.

- [ ] A voice of self-doubt
- [ ] Something I still feel guilty about
- [ ] A pattern I can't seem to break
- [ ] A person I keep arguing with in my head
- [ ] A moment I dread
- [ ] Something else

In one sentence, it's: _____

2 Get specific

Set the story aside. What exactly happens, or what exactly did they say or do?

Stories keep it vague and heavy. Specifics make it something you can actually look at.

FROM STORY TO SPECIFIC

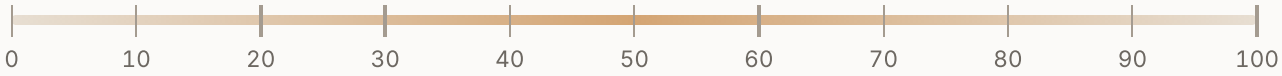

~~"She's impossible."~~	→ "She interrupted me twice in the meeting."
~~"I'm a fraud."~~	→ "I freeze when someone senior asks me a question."
~~"I always let people down."~~	→ "I missed my daughter's recital for a client call."

Specifically: _____

3 Score it

Right now, how one-sided does it feel? Circle or mark the scale.

0 means it's pure upside. 100 means it's all cost and no benefit. Most people start close to 100, and that's exactly the point.

All upside — Balanced · 50 / 50 — All cost, no benefit

How strongly does it pull on you? 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

4 A first glimpse of the other side

You've looked at what this has cost you. Now take a moment with the side you haven't been looking at.

There are no wrong answers. Even something small counts.

a. What has this pushed you to learn, build, or become?

b. Where has it made you stronger, sharper, or more determined?

c. If a close friend had lived through this, what would you say it gave them?

Now look at it again. My new score (0–100): _____

This is a first glimpse, not the whole picture. In a full session, the questions go much deeper, and the number keeps moving.

5 Reflect

What did you notice as you worked through this?

If this no longer ran you, what would you do differently this week?

If the number barely moved, that's normal. This is where a session begins.

In a private session, we take the one thing you named today and work it through completely, so you can see it clearly and it stops running you. Sessions are one-to-one, by video.

Breakthrough Session
One focused session on one person or pattern.

Six-Session Program
For self-worth and the patterns that keep coming back.
